Typed Introduction

This first page has a real text layer.

Scanned Report

This page has no text layer. It was printed and scanned, so its words exist only as pixels in an image.

Optical character recognition reads those pixels back into text that can be searched and copied.